A Tribute to New Englanders.

Senator Carmack opened his speech with a tribute to the Democracy of New England, who, he said, "through all these years have dauntlessly faced the brutal Republican majorities that exist and persist in this section of the country," and "who, like one of old, have always risen with renewed strength and courage from regular biernial contact with the earth."

"Let it be said in all truth and soberness," he continued, "that New England Republicanism had at least an honorable origin. Its early history was inspired by lofty ideals and crowned with noble achievements, and while we are here today in the name and on the behalf of the Democracy, we appeal to you by those great principles that were nearest to the heart of Abraham Lincoln and of all the founders of the Republican party."

After dwelling at considerable length upon the alleged departure of the Republican party of today from the landmarks set by its founders. Senator Carmack asserted that the concentration of wealth and power in the hands of a few men threatened the succession of the republic by "a despotism of force and corruption, operating for a time within the hollow form of a re-

Senator Car-mack predicted that "when that dis-tinguished statesman comes to under-stand, as he doubtiess will, that the Republican party has enthroned the trusts and made plutocracy supreme in the United States, he will prove a powerful and effective ally for the Democratic party.

Waits Until Congress Adjourns. "The president," continued Senator Carmack, "is now engaged in a terri-fic lingual assault upon the trusts. He demands that there shall be more and demands that there shall be more and stronger laws to curb the power.

"I have always understood it to be the duty of the president to advise congress by message of such legislation as he thinks will promote the general welfare. But he waits until congress has adjourned and then tells the people of the laws he intends to have enacted by some other congress at some other time.

The presentation of Mr.Bryan caused great enthusiasm. Cheers greeted him as he stepped to the front of the platform, and he was several times interrupted by demonstrations of approval. # SECEDE FROM THE CITY

Dispute Over Parley's Canyon Water Causes Plans For Withdrawal to Be Prepared.

Southeastern Residents Talk of Forming a Town of Their Own With 10,000 People and $5,000,000 in Property.

Lake City may secode from the municipality, the mass of taxpaying voters or a competent judicial tribunal consenting, and join issues with the clinations than seems possible under existing circumstances and prospective conditions. It all depends upon the ability of the people who believe they were made over the deduction existing circumstances and prospective conditions. It all depends upon the ability of the people who believe they hold the key to the situation to break the contract between Salt Lake City and the owners of the prime water rights in Parley's canyon creek for an exchange of canyon water for an rights in Parley's canyon creek for exchange of canyon water for an equivalent of canal water.

That there is a well laid purpose in the secession and rival town government talk is believed by those who are familiar with the expressed sentiment of the people south of the city, although the proponents of the scheme have been working quietly on the preliminarles. Early in the week when Mayor Thompson, the members of the city council committee on Irrigation, council committee on irrigation, City Attorney Nye, City Engineer Kel-sey and Land & Water Commissioner Fisher investigated the complaint of several land owners along Twelfth South street that they are not receiv-ing their full share of water from the city canal in exchange for their rights to the canyon creek flow, it was learned from among the complainants control of their Parley's canyon water from Salt Lake City.

City Officials Discuss Scheme.

Later, after the committee had ac-orded a hearing to a delegation of the complainants and their legal advisers, City Attorney Nye drew attention to the well defined rumor, as he had heard it, and Councilman Fernstrom added that he had become convinced

Parley's cauyon creek.
Should secession carry, this city would lose, besides a large amount of taxable property, probably a couple of thousand inhabitants, provided the district up to Tenth South street be cut off. Adding the districts of Water-leo, Forest Dale and also such parts of Sugar ward and Farmers' ward as are not included in either Waterloo and Forest Dale, the entire population within the proposed new town limits would approximate 10,000 and the tax-able wealth probably not less than

Contract Long in Force.

According to the exchange contract between the owners of 82½ per cent of the flow of Parley's creek and the city, which contract, as drawn by Attorney Van Cott, has been in force since 1888, the parties of the first part have the right to retake their canyon water after twelve hours' notice to the municipality of its default in furnishing the water required. This act of termination of the contract would be final without sanction of a court, although it is provided that the city may, within six months thereafter, try again to make good in the matter, of again to make good in the matter of municipal officials, but the act of taking the canyon flow has not yet been attempted. Officials of the city assert emphatically that the people of Sugar and Farmers' will be prevented by force and by judicial injunction, if by force and by Judicial injuticion, in necessary, from cutting off the flow of Parley's water into the pipe system, even for only a very brief period. Attorney Van Cott said last evening that his clients are not disposed to be
